

OUTSIDE SCAVENGER HUNT

Explore the community and how it interacts with the class. Get moving and get outside.

LESSON

On a particularly nice day, after standardized tests, or whenever you need to change the energy of a group, it can be great to get out of the shop! Use the Outside Scavenger Hunt/Jugar a los Escondidos (p. 218) or make your own!

1. Have youth form groups or have them work in one large group.
2. Hand out one scavenger hunt paper to each group along with a pen or pencil and a digital camera if possible. Youth can also use their phones to “document” findings. Make it clear if a picture is necessary for a find to “count.”
3. Assign boundaries. For example, “Stay between MLK Jr. Drive and Rainier Street and don’t go farther east than Bike Works or farther west than the coffee shop.”
4. Assign a time to meet back at the classrooms.
5. If you have enough staff you can send a staff with each group, but be sure to let students work out team roles on their own.
6. Once you all meet back at the classroom, share what you found and tally up points. (Or call everyone a winner and have a snack.)
